Mixed Emotions Meet Dress Code At CHS

BY CAROL CRAIN

Students at Canyon High School, when faced with a new dress code this week, met the situation with mixed emotions.

The code, the students interviewed said, is too strict in some areas.

"I think it's too strict," said sophomore Dave Morris. "I think that either extreme real short or real long hair looks bad, but I think length shouldn't make that much difference as long as it's clean and trimmed neatly."

David Word, another sophomore, said he also liked longer hair although not shoulder length. "I don't think they should make you cut to their specifications," he said, pointing to his well cropped neckline.

"People seem to think long hair has something to do with the riots on the campuses and that's not it at all," replied Tim Barker, sophomore. "I don't think that hair has anything to do with whether you study or not. . . unless you can't see!"

Senior Jimmy Tilger said he thinks that the officials should "let us wear our hair a little longer." He also likes shirts worn out because they are comfortable. "The rule about wearing socks with shoes isn't a favorite either because sandals don't look good with socks, and what's wrong with sandals?"

"Lots of guys look better in longer hair," stated Mike Demus, sophomore Eagle. "Hair doesn't make a person wild," he continued. "They should let us wear it the way we like because that's the right thing to do." Demus also reported that his brother, a student at Rice wears his hair longer in an Afro style and that doesn't seem to effect his mind. . . "he's a genius!"

David Hernandez grinned after the group had made their remarks and said, "Seems to me that they really want to see some 'bald eagles around here!"

Most of the girls interviewed admitted that they liked longer hair on the boys and some sideburns, but the hair should be neat and always clean.

About their own dress code the sophomore girls who had just come from the junior high where pants have been allowed said:

"Pants are more practical and more fun to wear!" stated Kathy Dees. "It also gives you a bigger wardrobe with more changes. You've got to have some pants in your wardrobe and they are too expensive not to be able to wear them to school."

Marla Phillips pointed out that, "Everyody wore dress pants to junior high. . .and I don't think they had any trouble with them there. I think they are practically more comfortable, and you don't have to watch how you sit in class. Besides, if you wear pants then your mother won't complain about how short your dresses are!"

When asked about the dress code Teddi Crager said that "I haven't read it yet, but . . .I think that pants should be all right because you save money on your hose." Teddi also said she liked to wear the pant dresses and scooter skirts too. "I do think that the boys should wear their shirts tucked in though, because we should look neat when visitors come to the school."

Nicci Johnston, senior cheerleader, admitted "I haven't read it yet either, but I like to wear pants." She said that even though she didn't like the midi length skirt she did like the midi coat and pant sets. "I'll proably wear the midi coat," she reported.

Another senior cheerleader, Robbie Ramsey said, "I like the midi coats, but not with boots. I'm going to wear my skirts as short as they'll let me!" she laughed.

School Board Eyes Expanded Facility

Expansion of school facilities here, including the prospect of building a new elementary school, was discussed at length Tuesday night by the Canyon School Board.

School Supt. Jerry Jacobs pointed to increased enrollments and said with Canyon's continuing growth "we're going to have to do something."

Jacobs hinted that the "something" may have to come within the next few years.

The whole discussion of expansion of facilities occurred as board members reviewed their deal with Canyon developer Arch Hunsley for a small portion of land west of the Hunsley Hills addition.

Citing current enrollment figures at Rex Reeves Elementary School, Jacobs said "every inch of (the school) is covered this year."

He estimated the school will grow at the rate of a classroom per year.

School officials were caught unaware this fall, he said, because projections based on a census last spring are off by about 25 students.

"When school was out last spring we projected we'd have 118 in the first grade in Rex Reeves this fall," Jacobs said. "Yesterday we enrolled 143 in the first grade. That's a complete other room."

He said enrollment was over projections in the second and third grades, also.

Several remedies to the overcrowded conditions were talked, including construction of a new school, use of pre-fabricated classrooms, change of boundary lines and opening of school year-round.

Responding to a question from Jerry LaGrone, Jacobs said a 12-month school term is still in the future.

Jacobs said one possible solution will be the moving of the boundary lines for students attending Gene Howe and Rex Reeves. But, he noted that there is a danger in changing the boundaries.

"The danger is that in moving boundary lines for one year or two years or three, you may have to move them again because of other growth," he said.

Jacobs said there are some empty classrooms in Gene Howe.

J.O. Parker said he feels it will be best to use existing facilities before any move to construction is made.

In other business, the board approved the 1970-71 operating budget of $2,275,631. The budget reflects an increase over the 1969-70 expenditures of about $400,000.

In approving the budget, the board also reaffirmed its intention of keeping a $1.65

Ben Barnes, lieutenant governor of Texas, flew into the Canyon area Monday and was greeted by West Texas State University officials, including Dr. James P. Cornette, president, far right. Barnes was keynote speaker at WTSU's annual leadership conference Monday.

Barnes Urges Students To Become Involved

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, noting that the United States is a divided nation, invited student leaders at West Texas State University Monday to participate in the democratic process and become involved in solving the problems of today.

Barnes, guest speaker for the annual WTSU leadership conference, said he supports giving the vote to 18-year-olds, but he warned that there is a growing climate of anti-young people in this country.

The number one problem in America today, he said, is polarization of the old against the young, the young against the old.

He said that through his travels in Texas he has noticed a growing feeling among the adults that today's youth is allowed too much freedom. They want stricter authority, he said.

Barnes said he feels the greatest asset America has today is its young people.

"They should be given more of an opportunity to feel they are a part of the democratic process today," he said.

Barnes said the need is urgent for young people to begin exerting leadership today.

"We cannot afford the luxury of a divided nation," he said. "The most articulate young people have got to come into the system and participate."

The young lieutenant governor said the problem in politics today is an undue amount of concern over labels rather than issues.

He said even though Tex-

County Eyes $1 Million Budget

Randall County Commissioners eyed a more than $1 million budget Monday afternoon and set a public hearing for its considration for Sept. 7.

County Judge Carroll Brown said anticipated revenues for this year are $1,048,000. Total anticipated expenditures for 1971 are $1,029,000, indicating a $19,000 surplus.

Brown said the tax rate of $1.05 per $100 valuation will remain the same in the 1971 budget.

In explaining increases in the new budget over last year's, Brown stirred a brief controversy when he said Randall County's costs for district judge salaries and adult probation office expenditures will increase about 15 per cent.

Formerly, he said, Randall County has been paying 22 per cent of the cost for judges salaries and the probation office. Potter County has been paying 77 per cent.

But, he said, this year, Randall County has been allocated to pay 37.8 per cent while Potter County pays 62.5 per cent.

The judge said the cost for the two items is based on population of each county. With Randall's increased population as indicated by the 1970 census, it must pay more proportionally, he noted.

The increase will amount to about $10,000.

Commissioner Glenn Dowlen protested the move.

"It seems like we're way off balance in that deal," he said. "Let's get that changed."

Judge Brown noted that another increase in the budget will be the addition of $5,000 allocated to the county welfare program.

Commissioners noted there is no allocation in the budget for a superintendent over road service crews. The county voted about a year ago to move into a unit system of road service management on Jan. 1, 1971.

The head of the adult probation office in Amarillo is to meet with the commission Sept. 7 to discuss costs in his office actually incurred by Randall County's residents.

In other business Monday, the commission hit a snag of sorts when it was asked to award contract for 30,000 envelopes for the county tax office.

Russell's Stationary of Amarillo was low bidder with $249.60, but Commissioner Clarence Beckman felt the contract should go to Haley's Printing of Canyon,

Buffs Put On Pads Today To Continue Fall Workouts

After working three days without pads, West Texas State University's Buffaloes climb into full football gear today for their first contact work.

Coach Joe Kerbell and his staff put their charges through two-a-day sessions Monday through Wednesday. The players wore shorts during those practices and conditioning was stressed.

Kerbel was highly pleased with the overall physical condition of the squad, but said the players must be in near mid-season condition for their season opener.

"We play Lamar Tech in Beaumont Sept. 19 and the humidity is really something down there," he said. "That type of weather saps the strength out of a football team quickly."

While working without pads, the Buffaloes were put through their entire offensive and defensive play books and Kerbel was generally pleased with the improvement in timing.

A battle for the starting quarterback berth has developed between Clarence "Pookie" Redic, last fall's starter, and sophomore redshirt Ed Holwig.

Redic was scholastically ineligible last spring and regained his eligibility during summer school. Holwig was impressive during spring drills.

"It is nice to be blessed with two good quarterbacks," said Kerbel. "In the remainder of the backfield berths, however, we are thin."

Offensive line coach Jack Harris and defensive line coach Joe Granato have major rebuilding jobs.

Only one interior offensive lineman returns as a regular from last fall's 6-4 club. Dale Donoho, who started several games last year at tackle, has been switched to guard, leaving Wayne Adams as the only returnee playing the same post he manned last year.

Mike Hinton To Leave DA

Mike Hinton has announced that he will resign as Randall County assistant criminal district attorney and will become assistant district attorney in Houston.

Hinton is scheduled to formally submit his resignation to the commissioners court Monday but probably will remain here through most of next week. Hinton has held the Randall County post for the past two years.

Dick Dambold of Amarillo will replace Hinton, according to Criminal District Attorney George Dowlen. Dambold is a graduate of Oklaho-

CHS Eagles To Meet Brownfield In Trial

Canyon High School's Eagles, after a successful intra-squad scrimmage last weekend, looks to Friday night for its first varsity match with another school.

The Eagles meet Brownfield at 7 p.m. Friday in Wayland College Stadium in Plainview.

For many Eagles, the scrimmage will be their first experience at varsity football action with another school.

Last Saturday at the Eagles' first scrimmage, the team showed an improved passing game with the tosses of Mike Swatzell and Chuck Wright.

Swatzell hit 18 of 27 for 179 yards and two touchdowns. He hit 67 per cent of his pass attempts.

Wright didn't fair quite as well, hitting only four of 16 attempted for 25 per cent and 40 yards gained.

Canyon's backfield bomb Robert Bull, a 175-pound senior, didn't see action Saturday. He sustained a minor injury during practice last week. He will probably see action Friday night.

In the running department, the Eagles tallied good yardage.

John Hoover, a 155-pound halfback, scampered for 124 yards in 18 carried for one touchdown. He averaged 6.4 yards per carry.

I saw the movie "Patton" over the week end.

Patton was a motorized Stonewall Jackson with a sense of history. He probably contributed as much to our winning the war in Europe as any other man.

I can feel nothing but disgust for those who criticize him while enjoying the fruits of his efforts. True, he slapped a young man who broke in battle but his iron will and expertise probably saved the lives of thousands of others.

He was Eisenhower's answer to blitzkreig. He was highly respected by both Jodl and Rommel. His lightning thrust across Europe may well have saved England and even the world from Nazi conquest.

Let the H.M. Baggerlys who criticize Patton chew on this a bit. The Germans were perilously close to perfecting an atom bomb of their own.

Suppose we had let the war in Europe drag out as it could have with politically orientated generals such as Ike and Omar Bradley in charge. Suppose Hitler had gotten his atom bomb.

He had a V-2 rocket for a delivery system and could have annihilated the British Isles and possibly laid waste to the cities of America.

I only wish we had a few Pattons and McArthurs now. Things might be different.

I saw a bunch of hippies in Santa Fe last week poking fun at a monument to the veterans of New Mexican Indian wars. Standing on ground secured and made safe by those veterans these long-haired, unwashed would like to pull down the monument to them.

I feel about the same toward these ungrateful wretches as I do toward the Patton haters. When you sup at a man's table don't knock the way he earns his bread.

I crossed Slumgullion Pass last week on a trip to Lake City, Colo. Slumgullion has an interesting history.

The story goes that a fellow in a bar in Denver hired out to guide a party of prospectors in the Lake City area in the gold rush days.

The group was caught by winter, lost and stranded. Next spring the guide made his appearance back in civilization alone, sleek and well fed.

It finally evolved that he had provisioned his snowbound larder during the winter with his companions. Apprehended, he was brought to trial.

In pronouncing sentence the judge is reported to have said: "I sentence you to hang by the neck until you are dead, dead, dead. You dirty so and so you ate the last three Democrats in Hinsdale County."

I was struck by the fact that some of the most beautiful trout water in the world was going virtually unfished. Back in the rugged canyons near Lake City fishermen were scarce and I and my party fished almost alone.

The trout were easy to come by in the lakes. Almost everyone was catching their limit there using cheese as bait but what a thrill to hang a big one in the river rapids. I wouldn't trade one of these for a dozen lake trout.

Byron Fullerton was in the office this week. Byron is the Republican candidate for lieutenant governor. He is realistic about his chances.

However, he does seem to think he has a chance of beating Ben Barnes.

US News & World Report this week says the White House is optimistic about the chance of Paul Eggers defeating Preston Smith for governor.

Personally, I think that if the White House is optimistic on this score then it is also foolish. Preston Smith, although not a polished orator, is an accomplished politician and he will win in November. So will Ben Barnes.

The two party system hasn't got a chance in Texas until the liberals and conservatives in the Democratic and Republican parties polarize to the extent that they get together and square off.

Frosh To Have Candle March

Freshmen students at West Texas State Unicersity will participate in a candlelight march from the University Complex South to Buffalo Bowl Monday night.

Once at the bowl, the new students will be taught WTSU cheers and fight songs by the cheerleaders and the university band. They will return to the campus for a watermelon feast.

Our World

BY ANN BROWN

Truly, there are "none so blind as those that will not see." The belching smokestacks of industry that once spelled jobs and prosperity for Americans, have become the latest villains.

Fifty years ago, the bogey that gave little children nightmares was the "certain knowledge" that the world was soon coming to an end. Inasmuch as no one could be blamed for that catastrophe, however, except the Creator, the politicians could not find a convenient scapegoat.

There are many industries which are indeed polluting the environment, and many of them are working night and day to correct the situation. But even in their original state, they are by no means the chief offenders.

Anyone who has ever tried to stay a few minutes in a closed garage with his car engine running knows that cars are putting far more poisonous gases into our atmostphere than all the industries combined.

It is all well and good to demand the factories be closed down to save our precious air, because relatively few Americans own factories. But practically all of us, old, young, rich, poor, high, low, black and white, drive automobiles, so we hear little about doing away with them.

When one considers the poisonous gas from our cars, the 56,000 lives lost on our highways last year, the hundreds of thousands who were injured, and the millions of dollars in property damage, it adds up to quite a lethal situation. Authorities report that half of all fatal traffic accidents are caused by beverage alcohol, and the vast majority of the others are definitely avoidable. Do these facts not expose our hypocrisy in condemning the factories, which operate solely for man's good--not his destruction.

According to statistics, the arch villain of pollution is smoking tobacco. In addition to the deaths from lung cancer, heart disease, emphysema, and other broncial disorders attributed to tobacco smoke, what about the pollution of homes, offices, airplanes, trains, buses, and all public gathering places?

But again, about half of all Americans smoke, and that is entirely too large a group to make a good scapegoat. The factory owner is condemned for inadvertently spewing smoke into the air while engaged in productive work. How hypocritical the smoker who deliberately draws poisonous smoke into his own lungs for no good resson, must appear to the oppressed industrialist.

Anyone who doubts the lethal effects of tobacco smoke should talk with the men who raise hothouse tomatoes. They will not even permit a package of cigarettes to be carried into the building. They say the smoking of just one cigarette inside the greenhouse could kill every tomato plant on the premises.

When the filthy litter, the holes burned in clothes and furniture, and the many destructive fires caused by smoking are added to all the other tobacco carnage, are we not justified in condemning this unnecessary pollution?

The smelters are currently under fire for polluting our air. Even persons who work in the plants, however, and those who live adjacent to them, vow they cause them no discomfort.

Last January there was a man working in an Internal Revenue office who was smoking a pipe so vile that people were literally choking. If a man wants to pollute his home, or his private office with smoke, it is his own affair. Anyone who does not like it can stay out. But inasmuch as almost no one enters an IRS office by choice, isn't tormenting a captive clientele a bit too much?

And what about the smoker who lights up in the home, office, or other habitation of non-smokers? They find him far more offensive than the community smokestack.

Shouldn't we individuals remove the beams from our own eyes before we insist on removing the motes from the eyes of the industries to whom we all owe so much?

Mixed. . .

Sommer states that "Certainly we are concerned with the development of every student in this school with the hope that they will be truly productive members of our society. It is hoped that these policies and guidelines are adopted."

The letter also stated that, "We appreciate your cooperation and understanding concerning this matter."

A portion of the bulletin that contains the dress code, along with other regulations must be returned to the school after it has been read and signed by the parents.

In an interview, Sommer said, "I'm not going to set a length by inches or measure a skirt, but I expect the girls to wear a respectable length." The code is supposed to eliminate the mini skirt Sommer stated. However, when asked if the girls could wear the "midi" length, he said enthusiastically, "They sure can! Maxi, too!" The administrator indicated that the length would be a welcome change to school officials.

Sommer also stated that hair length would not be measured either, but that boys must keep their hair neatly trimmed.

Rules for boys state that shirts must be tucked in unless specifically made to be worn outside, belts are to be worn unless the pants are made so that one is not required, socks must be worn with shoes and shoes should not have metal tips or cleats. Hair should be well groomed and trimmed so as not to extend over the eyebrows and ears. It should not curl up in the back due to excessive length, or extend over the collar of the shirt. Boys must be clean shaven, with sideburns straight and not longer than the bottom of the ear.

Girls may wear combinations of a blouse and skirt, blouse and jumper, sweater and skirt, suit, or conservative school dress. Slacks, sweat shirts, immodestly fitted sweaters or skirts, and mini-skirts are not acceptable wear. Culottes are permitted if they have the appearance of a skirt and are properly fitted. Hair roller, hair clips, or excessive makeup is generally inappropraite school wear.

The student dress bulletin states that "There is a strong relationship between how one is dressed and how one acts." It also states that "Judgement regarding compliance with these guidelines will be made as necessary by the administration of this school. Failure to comply with this policy will result in corrective measures which, if necessary, includes suspension from classes.

Tillinghast, Group, Shot Rapids On Deep, Swift Colorado River

BY TROY MARTIN

For the second time this year Jack Tillinghast, physical education instructor at West Texas State University, took a float trip down the Colorado River in Grand Canyon and shot the rapids in a small rubber raft.

This year there were two boats and four people in the party.

The people included Jim Luginbill, a PE graduate student at WTSU; Jerry Bailey, Lubbock; and Shannon Bennett, a high school student from Amarillo.

All members of the party had to be good swimmers in order to get permission to make the trip. Such permission is granted by the head ranger at Grand Canyon who makes his decision after looking over the past experience of the people involved.

Jack's second trip down the river gave him a Colorado River Runner's Permit which means he will no longer have to undergo such scrutiny before being allowed to make the trip.

Tillinghast began making float trips about 10 years ago when he was a swimming instructor at Lubbock.

This year the trip started at Lee's Ferry, Ariz., and wound up at Phantom Ranch in the bottom of Grand Canyon.

Jack said the most hair-raising experience this year came when his boat overturned in Nevell's Rapids three days before the end of the excursion.

His boat mate, Jerry Bailey, was swept into the rapid and remained in a swirling eddy for about a minute.

"The rest of us were scared," Tillinghast reported, "But Jerry is cool headed and is a good swimmer. He wasn't scared at all."

Bailey had been caught in a hole behind a huge rock in the rapids.

"There was a sand bar at the side of the rapid and we were about to unload a boat and go after him when he came up," Tillinghast reported. Tillinghast suffered a leg injury in the mishap.

Jack Tillinghast is shown here with one of the 9-foot rafts in which he and his companions shot the rapids of the Colorado River in the Grand Canyon. The 120-mile trip required 12 days.

Jack said the boats overturned several times. Most of the gear was tied down but the party did lose some rope and two cameras.

"When a boat would turn over one of us would get the boat and the other would go after the gear," he said. The trip of 120 miles required 12 days this year. The group spent some time camping and looking for Indian artifacts. Jack found an unusual arrow head.

He said it was unusual because the tribe which lived in the canyon, the Anasazis, were pottery makers and had few tools. He said the tribe lived in the Grand Canyon until about 1400 A.D. and then seemed to disappear from the face of the earth.

Tillinghast said the average depth of the Colorado through the Canyon is about 50 feet. "You could drown pretty easy in that water," he said, "Although one of the requirements for being given a permit is being a good swimmer."

Jack hopes some time to buy a war surplus Navy assault boat. With this 10-man rig he hopes to take his family down the Colorado over the same water he and his companions explored in the 9-foot rafts.

New Courses In Medical Transcription To Be Offered At West Texas State

A new course in medical transcription will be provided in night school at West Texas State University in the fall term opening this week.

"The course offers a variety of new career opportunities for persons already engaged in health care work, secretaries or typists in other fields and for students enrolling in the secretarial science programs at the university," said Dr. Roland Johnson, head of the Department of Business Education and Office Administration.

The medical transcription course will be known as Business Education 476-2 and will meet at 7 p.m. Thursdays. Typewriting ability is necessary, Johnson said.

"A medical vocabulary will be developed and machine transcription will be used," he added. "No shorthand ability is necessary."

Persons interested in the course should contact the Registrar's Office at West Texas State. Registration for evening-only students at the university is Saturday at the Activities Center on campus.

"The course was developed to offset an acute shortage of skilled transcriptionists in the medical record departments of hospitals, nursing homes and other health care facilities," Johnson said.

The course will provide the student with skills to accurately and speedily transcribe medical dictation, to produce accurate medical data through a broader knowledge of general medical terms, drugs and instruments and to properly use medical dictionaries, spelling guides and other standard reference works.

Johnson said, "The course will prepare a person for a job that is among the highest paid of secretarial positions."

Dr. Kenneth M. Laycock, dean of the College of Education at West Texas State University, was in San Diego, Calif., Thursday for a three-day Institute for Independent Educational Auditors.

Candidate Byron Fullerton, who is running for the lieutenant governor's seat, talks over his campaign with another candidate, Rhett Plank of Canyon. Plank seeks the seat of Randall County district attorney. Both are running on the Republican ticket.

Candidate Scores Ben Barnes

Byron Fullerton said his race for lieutenant governor depends on several factors headed by adequate financing.

Fullerton's trail crossed that of his opponent, incumbent Ben Barnes, in Canyon Monday. Fullerton was here as a part of a campaign swing around the Panhandle and Barnes addressed a West Texas State University leadership conference.

Fullerton is the Republican candidate for the office.

Fullerton says that he will need $300,000 to meet his budget. "I don't know how much of this is in and I don't know whether we'll meet our budget or not," he declared. "I don't know anyone who's meeting their budget including Ben Barnes."

The candidate said development of issues will also be a factor. He also listed overcoming voter apathy but said a small turnout will favor him.

Fullerton scored what he termed the lieutenant governor's attitude toward welfare. He said Barnes has come out for removing the ceiling on welfare from the state constitution.

"If we do this we'll have runaway welfare," he stated.

He noted that 28 percent of the children on welfare are illegitimate and said the state needs paternity laws to force fathers of such children to contribute to their support.

He accused Barnes of pushing a sales tax on groceries through the senate — legislation he said was killed in the house. "I'm not in favor of taxing grocceries," he declared.

The candidate said he is steadfastly against any form of state income tax but predicted a rise in the state sales tax.

Fullerton said he is realistic about his chances. "But at least I showed up for the ball game," he declared.

Capers Dance Is Saturday

Canyon Capers' Sweetheart Dance is to be held Saturday in the Student Union Building for all square dancers.

A concession stand will offer sandwiches, brownies, donuts, and drinks.

The club danced to the calling of Knox Day Monday and had a guest tip by Leroy Pitt.

Students Hit Books Wednesday

Students in Canyon's four public schools--including the new junior high school--put on clean shirts,tucked notebooks under their arms and hit the classrooms Wednesday morning.

It was the first day of classes here. Class at West Texas State University begins Monday.

More than 2,700 students were expected to enroll in the public schools, while WTSU expected an enrollment of about 8,500.

Students at Canyon High School returned Wednesday to new paint and paving on the grounds. Parking lots to the front and rear of the school building were paved and striped during the summer. Parking permits were also issued.

In addition, high schoolers found a new dress code awaited their arrival (see related story on page 1.)

Rex Reeves Elementary students returned to air conditioned classrooms.

The biggest change, though, was in the junior high school.

Kathy Gist Meets Real Italy

Unlike camera-toting tourists, Kathy Gist of Canyon met Italy on its own terms this summer.

She avoided the tourist traps, the junk shops which specialize in high prices.

Instead she met the people and learned of their way of life.

Miss Gist, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R.B. Gist, spent two months in Italy as a part of a 4-H Clubs program of youth exchange.

She returned to Canyon last Wednesday.

How did Miss Gist stay out of the tourist syndrome?

She lived with three families of Italians, staying two weeks with each family.

The families lived in small towns--towns about the size of Canyon--and she was exposed to life as it is in a foreign country.

Not that she didn't see at least a portion of Italy from a tourist's viewpoint. Her first stop was to Rome for an orientation of several days.

Prior to going to Italy, Miss Gist studied Italian with Kelly McBride of Canyon, formerly of Italy.

Even so, there was a great language barrier.

"If they talked slowly you could understand them," she said. "But, if you asked them to slow down, they'd just talk louder and faster."

While living with the families, Miss Gist became just a part of the household. She performed housework, helped cook meals and harvest such crops as strawberries.

"This was hard to do, too," she said, "because they want you to sit down all the time and let them entertain you."

The families Miss Gist stayed with were small--usually not more than three or four persons. The heads of the families were farmers.

"Most of the farms there are much smaller than ours," Miss Gist said. "One family had 2,400 acres of rice."

The families are almost self-sufficient in their farming and gardening. One family had just 16 acres.

"They grow tomatoes, artichokes, strawberries--just everything," she said. "They sell some of it and then use it for their vegetables."

The farmers used irrigation and modern machinery.

One family Miss Gist stayed with had one tractor. The father drove the tractor from their home in town to his farm, then parked the tractor and used its power to pump irrigation wells, while he plowed the fields with horses.

The people of Italy, she says, were very warm and friendly.

"They thought everybody from the United States was rich," she said, "but I told them we have our rich and poor just like they do."

Comparing the smaller cities she lived in to Canyon, Miss Gist said the residents patronized small specialty shops--selling vegetables, sausage and wine--rather than the larger supermarkets.

Kathy Gist

She said bars in Italy are wide open. Children are often seen leaving a bar with a bottle of wine for their families.

The towns had squares much as Canyon's with the small shops around them. The buildings were mainly of stucco construction.

Before leaving Europe for the summer, Miss Gist toured Switzerland, Germany, and Holland.

Survey Work To Start On 15th

Survey work will begin shortly in preparation for construction of a grade separation at 15th Street and U.S. 60 in north Canyon.

Chili Smith, district engineer for the Texas Highway Department, said last week that plans are in the mill for the grade separation.

He said financing for the construction will probably not come until the fall of 1971.

The construction will be in conjunction with construction of a grade separation at Hunsley Road and U.S. 87.

Smith said the 15th Street grade separation will probably involve taking U.S. 80 under 15th and maintaining 15th's present grade.

R.A. Rusk, Canyon Native, Dies Tuesday

R.A. "Bud" Rusk, 76 years old, a native of Randall County, died Tuesday afternoon shortly after arrival at Neblett Hospital.

Mr. Rusk had suffered a heart attack a few minutes earlier.

Mr. Rusk was born in a dugout at Wayside March 2, 1894. His parents were farmers who had moved to Randall County in the 1880s in a covered wagon.

Bud, as he was known, was a fiddler from the time he was a little boy and was frequently called upon to play at social gatherings until a few years ago.

Mr. Rusk was probably best known for his sympathy and assistance to Canyon's elderly. He spent a great deal of his time in recent years visiting and helping old people.

Mr. Rusk operated a second hand store in downtown Canyon for 27 years before retiring. Before that he ran a feed store and was in the concrete business.

He was a member of Canyon First Baptist Church.

Survivosrs include his wife, Myrtle; a daughter, Mrs. Frank Brooks of Canyon; two brothers, Jack Rusk of Bakersfield, Cal., and Allen of Trinidad, Colo.; two sisters, Mrs. Floyd Galloway of Torrence, Cal., and Mrs. Noma Clounch of Canyon; and five grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Funeral services will be at 4 p.m. today at the First Baptist Church with the Rev. Bill Foil, pastor, and the Rev. Strauss Atkinson, former pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Dreamland Cemetery.

The matching veil of imported illusion fell from a coif of lace and seed pearls.

The bride carried a bouquet of white gardenias surrounded with feathered carnations atop a white Bible.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Robert W. Smithee, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Susie Seaney, sister of the bridegroom and Marsha McCuistion, cousin of the bride. The attendants wore floor length gowns of powder blue sparkle crepe with empire waist and full Renaissance chiffon sleeves. Bouquets of blue and white carnations were carried by the attendants.

A reception followed at the Methodist Student Center. The serving table was decorated with a white lace tablecloth over a blue undercloth. A crystal candelabra and the bridal party's bouquets further enhanced the table.

Members of the house party included Misses Sharon Sims, Kathy Brown, Jan Patton and Mrs. Wayne Brewer.

The bride traveled in a navy blue and white two piece linen suit with navy accessories.

After a wedding trip to Colorado Springs the couple will be at home at Route 1, Box 240 in Canyon.

The bride is a graduate of Canyon High School and plans to resume studies at WTSU for the spring semester in 1971.

The bridegroom is employed by Mesa Oil Company at the Randall County Feedlot.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Howerton and Wilburn Hughes of Amarillo. The groom is the son of Mrs. Billy Jean Denny of Amarillo.

Reverand Norris Onstead, the church pastor, solemnized the ceremony.

Traditional wedding music was played by organist Mrs. Jesse Sutton and the "Wedding Prayer" was sung by Rhonda Sutton.

Patricia Lee Cox of Canyon was maid of honor. She wore a lavender floor length gown of dotted swiss. The sister of the bride, Karen Sue Hughes, was flower girl. Both attendants carried purple asters.

The groom's brother, Dale Denny, served as best man.

Ushering were Andy Dorsey of Canyon and John Gassaway and Tommy Hughes, both of Amarillo.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length formal gown of chiffon trimmed in tiny crocheted daisies.

The bride wore an elbow length veil of illusion attached to a coif of pearls and petal points. She carried a cascade of white asters for her bouquet.

A reception followed in fellowship hall with Janith Onstead presiding at the guest book. Debbie Denny and Sarah Moffitt served at the bride's table.

After a wedding trip to Colorado the couple will be at home in south Amarillo.

The bride is an employee of K-Mart in Amarillo. The groom has just recently been released from the army after completing a two-year tour of duty in Viet Nam.

Bride's Father Officiates Ceremony

Miss Patricia Carrollyn Peery and Frederick S. Richard were married August 22nd in a double ring ceremony officiated by the bride's father, the Rev. J. Frank Peery at the First United Methodist Church.

The Rev. and Mrs. Peery live at 2107 3rd Ave. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Richard of Hereford.

Providing the music at the wedding was Mrs. Glen Dowlen, organist. The classical music included "Clare de Lune," "Through the Years," "Traumerie," "Serenade," "Liebistraum," "Moonlight Sonata," "Largo" and the traditional marches by Mendelssohn and Lohengrin.

Miss Alicia Boone sang "I Love Thee," "O Perfect Love," and "Wedding Prayer."

Escorted to the altar by her brother, Richard Neal Peery and given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a gown fashioned by her mother of white crepe that featured short sleeves and a full skirt gathered onto a basque-paneled bodice. The scooped neckline was outlined with a rose-point lace yoke. The chapel length train was attached at the waistline by rosette and bud spray.

The bride's veil of imported illusion fell from a five petal point lace tiara encrusted with seed pearls.

The bride carried a lavender cattalaya orchid on a background of baby "bride's white" roses accented with stephanotis. Shower streamers with love knots and pearls fell from the arrangement that sat atop her mother's wedding testament.

The altar was flanked by twin seven-branch candelabras and basket arrangements of lavender and purple asters with yellow gladiolas. A memory candle was centered on the altar backed by a fan arrangement of flowers. Two spiral candles decorated the floor level.

Stephanie Marie Peery, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Fawneil Price was bridesmaid. They wore floorlength empire dresses of flocked multi-colored print cloque accented with velvet. They carried nosegay bouquets of lavender and yellow asters accented with sinuata satice.

Samuel Richard, brother of the groom, served as best man and Randall Price was groomsman.

Ushers were Aubrey Lewis of Carrollton, William Riggins of Amarillo, Richard Peery and Charles Smith of Canyon.

A reception followed in fellowship hall. Guests were registered by Maribeth Oglesby. Jan Barnhart of Amarillo and Mrs. Derrel Evins of Canyon presided at the bride's table.

Members of the houseparty included Mrs. Jeff Gunter, Mrs. Keith Hines, Mrs. Willie McAlpin, Misses Jaycene and Sheryl Bellah, Royce Holladay, Sharon Lumry, Teddi Crager, Karen and Kathy Petit, and Wanda Wagner.

The bride traveled in a lavender linen and lace dress with printed voile cape and black patent accessories.

After a wedding trip to Denver, Colorado the couple will be at home at the Methodist Student Center on the WTSU campus.

The bride is a graduate of Canyon High School and has attended WTSU. She is employed at Kerr Paper Co. in Amarillo.

The groom is also a graduate of Canyon High School and is a sophomore student at WTSU. He is employed at the Currie Drilling Co. in Canyon.

as has the opportunity to make itself the greatest state in the nation, the participation of its young leaders is essential to that progress.

Barnes said he is "very concerned" about the next legislature's attitude toward higher education.

"I'm afraid higher education in Texas is going to suffer as California's did, he said, noting that there was a feeling in California's legislature that college professors made too much money.

He said as a result college professors were denied a pay raise.

"Reagan is running an anti-kid, anti-faculty campaign," he charged. "This is not good for the nation.

"It is not good for national political figures to look at a group of kids and say they're a bunch of bums."

Barnes' last remark received spontaneous ovation from the student audience.

During a question and answer period following his formal remarks, Barnes talked of everything from Vietnam to the nation's economy.

He said he favors President Nixon's plan to Vietnamize the war in Southeast Asia.

He said he would also favor a tax incentive program to aid industry in the state in its fight against pollution. He said incentives could be given polluting industries to purchase needed control equipment now.

Dr. Theron Hawkins of Kerrville, a member of WTSU's board of regents, was keynote speaker Tuesday morning during the second session of the annual leadership conference.

Hawkins outlined the responsibilities of the regents and their function in relation to the campus.

Other speakers during the conference included Hank Brown, executive director of the WTSU Ex-Students Association, and Virgil Henson, WTSU financial vice president.

Discussion periods consumed the final half of the day Tuesday to end the conference.

which bid $263.10.

Beckman said he felt the bid should be awarded to a firm within the county. He pointed out that Amarillo College recently failed to award a contract for printing of its students newspaper to The Canyon News because the News isn't in the college district.

Commissioners Bill Butler and Jim Fletcher said if such a bid were awarded to a firm only in the county, "we might as well quit asking for bids."

The contract was awarded to Russell's, but Beckman abstained from voting.

tax rate in the school district.

No residents were present for the formal budget hearing.

"It's distressing to me that all through the year all we hear is are gripes and now when we have a budget hearing nobody shows up," said LaGrone. "I'd be happier if we had a room full of people."

Only visitor of the night was Howard Northcutt, city manager, who sought approval of a plan where the school would purchase a portion of an 8 inch sewer line for its school property west of Hunsley Hills.

Eagles. . .

Rick Edmonson, 150-pounder, carries for 83 yards in 16 carried for a touchdown. He averaged 5.2 yards per carry.

"It was a good scrimmage," said Coach Dunny Goode. "We threw the ball well and our passing game was better than it has been in the past."

Goode said both his quarterbacks are shaping up well.

The team as a whole, he said, is also beginning to shape into a power.

"The team attitude is real good right now," he said, "and we haven't had any quitters. They've got a lot of pride here."

Physically, Goode said his team is improving. They are improving too on the other mechanical aspects of the game.

"We still have a lot of room for improvement because we're starting so many kids who haven't played varsity football before," he said.

Against Brownfield Friday, Goode said he and his coaching staff will look at every player and his performance.

Couple Weds At Calvary

Calvary Baptist Church was the site for the double ring ceremony August 7th for Peggy Ann Bible and Max Bosley III.

Rev. H. D. Freeman, pastor of the church, officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bible and the parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Max Bosley, Jr., all of Canyon.

Music was provided by Armetha Lindley who played selections on the organ.

The sanctuary was decorated with a lighted candle archway, twin spiral candelabras and yellow pom pom mums.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor length formal gown of lace over bridal satin. The gown was fashioned in an A-line silhouette with elbow length sleeves and a high neckline. A chapel length train fell from the shoulders and featured appliqued lace down the back.

The bride's shoulder length veil of illusion was attached to a coif of petal points and pearls.

A bouquet of white baby roses in a cascade arrangement was set atop a white Bible for the bride to carry.

Members of the bridal party included Rhonda Bible, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, and Lori Bosley, sister of the groom as bridesmaid. Both wore street length A-line dresses of blue lace over white bridal satin. The dresses featured a scooped neckline and long sleeves. Yellow pom pom nosegays were carried by the attendants.

Marla Bible and Danny Bible were candle lighters for the ceremony.

Lynn Salmon was best man and Stu Downing was groomsman.

Serving as ushers were Downing, and Walter Loyd, cousin of the groom.

Honored guests at the wedding were Mrs. Dickerson of Canyon, the groom's grandmother and Mrs. Susie Trout of McLean, the bride's grandmother.

A reception followed in fellowship hall of the church.

The bride traveled in a dark blue A-line dress with white ruffles down the front.

After a wedding trip to the Colorado mountains the couple will return to live in Canyon.

The bride is a graduate of Canyon High School and is employed by Neblett Hospital. The groom is a second year student at WTSU and is employed by the Canyon Water Department.

Mrs. Max Bosley III
